CITY OF PHILADELPHIA REAL ESTATE CONDITIONAL TAX FORGIVENESS PROGRAM

DEADLINE MAY 1, 2006

According to the City of Philadelphia, there are approximately 20,000 homes in Philadelphia that have not paid one or several years of real estate taxes since 1997. Because real estate taxes have steep interest and penalties added for unpaid bills, many people who fall behind on their tax bills quickly become overwhelmed and feel there is nothing they can do to catch up.

The City of Philadelphia announced a new program called the Conditional Tax Forgiveness Program which basically asks the homeowner to pay the back taxes owed without the high interest and penalties added. Furthermore, the homeowner can spread these payment out over a four year period. There may be some attorney fees and other costs involved, but it is no where near the cost of the interest and penalties that made repayment almost impossible. To be eligible for this forgiveness program, the household has to be at or below 250% of the Federal Income Poverty Guideline. This means that a family of four persons can have an income of $48,375 and still qualify for this program.

This is a great opportunity for many people to catch up on their back real estate taxes. The deadline to file for this program is May 1, 2006 so there is not much time left. For more information, please call PASS at (215) 923-1900.
