One Book, One Philadelphia

The Polish American Cultural Center Museum is pleased to participate as a Community Partner in the One Book, One Philadelphia project. Since its founding by the Free Library of Philadelphia and the Mayor's Office just five years ago to promote reading, library usage and community, the One Book, One Philadelphia project has reached thousands of individuals throughout the region, instilling in people of all ages and backgrounds a love of reading and group discussion.

As a Community Partner in this project from January 15 through March 15, 2007, the Polish American Cultural Center Museum will be displaying the book "Thaddeus Kosciuszko" by Francis Casimir Kajencki as the featured One Book, One Philadelphia selection. This military biography of General Thaddeus Kosciuszko concentrates on his remarkable engineering achievements in the American Revolution during the years 1776-1783. The featured book is available for purchase from the Museum's gift shop.

The Polish American Cultural Center Museum is open Monday through Friday (winter schedule), 308 Walnut Street, in historic Philadelphia, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, call 215-922-1700.
